

THE CIVICS OF JUSTICE

"[V]oting is just one of those many choices that we have access to in this time. It feels like an act that honors the legacy of my ancestors who fought and died, just to show up to the ballot box... I'm showing up to vote for Black Lives."

– CJ Suitt, Chapel Hill, NC Poet Laureate

"Right now the nation is going through a transformation. The transformation consists of police accountability everywhere. We must continue to advocate for people – no matter who, what, when, where, how. This is why we need to make sure the power of the vote [is there] for the people."

–Kathy Greggs, Fayetteville PACT, Fayetteville, NC

Communities of color are fed up with being targeted, profiled, and disrespected by federal, state and local justice systems. In 2020, frustration specifically with police brutality and the tragic loss of Black lives has led to major uprisings across the United States and the world.

Frustration with racial bias and inequity is driving pushback and policy changes across North Carolina.

Using the tools of democracy, people are fighting back. Case studies — from Asheville to Fayetteville — featured in Democracy NC's Civics of Justice Toolkit (demnc.co/justice) illustrate how organizing, voting, showing up at public meetings, and contacting elected officials can build power.

In North Carolina, Black drivers are 95% more likely than whites to be stopped, and 115% more likely to be searched.

Black men make up 32% of all people killed by NC police since 2015, but only 10% of the population.

In 2016, 91,176 NC voters were disenfranchised due to a felony conviction — almost half of whom were Black.

Data from UNC-Chapel Hill, the Washington Post, and the Sentencing Project.

CASE STUDY: WINSTON-SALEM, NC

In Winston-Salem, a resurgent Black Lives Matter movement has focused attention on Sheriff Bobby Kimbrough and the Forsyth County Detention Center. New details suggesting negligence in the death of John Neville at the detention center in December 2019 has led to calls from the Winston-Salem chapters of Black Lives Matter, the NAACP, the Ministers Coalition, and abolitionist groups like the Unity Coalition and Triad Abolition Project for transparency and an independent investigation. Neville's unnecessary death is only the latest at the hands of private corrections healthcare company Wellpath — the subject of investigative reporting and multiple lawsuits over the last decade. On July 15th, the Triad Abolition Project and the Unity Coalition began #OccupyWSNC in Bailey Park to protest Neville's death and call for defunding local police and the sheriff, as well as full public transparency of all WSPD and FSCO documents.

In early August, Forsyth County released footage of John Neville's death in the Forsyth County Detention Center. In response to organizers' demands, the Forsyth County Sheriffs' Office agreed to ban the restraint method which led to Neville's death, issue public notification of deaths within the detention facility, and mandate administrative officer leave whenever a death occurs. After winning their initial set of demands, protesters from the Triad Abolition Project and Occupy Winston-Salem ended their encampment in Bailey Park, and now turn toward ending the Detention Center's contract with notorious private correctional healthcare company Wellpath.

THE POWER OF DEMOCRACY

Engaging at all levels of our democracy can help break the tangle of oppressive practices and policies. Working at the local level is especially powerful because those representatives are most directly accountable to you.

Start from the bottom and move up your ballot in 2020, for example:

- ☑ NC Mayors normally pick the city or town's police chief to manage law enforcement.
- ☑ NC City/Town Councils and County Commissions fund local law enforcement.
- ☑ NC's Governor ensures public safety and oversees agencies that implement justice and public safety programs, including state police, corrections, and juvenile justice.
- ☑ NC's Attorney General is the state's leading law enforcement officer, the A.G. heads the NC Dept. of Justice, which protects consumers from fraud, provides legal representation to State agencies, and is a resource for local district attorneys.
- ☑ NC Legislators are responsible for defining what is a crime, procedures for responding to crimes, sentences, and funding agencies that deal crimes.
- ☑ US Congresspeople can reform the justice system, create federal laws, and confirm US Supreme Court Justices.
- ☑ US Presidents appoint US Supreme Court Justices and the Attorney General who leads the Dept. of Justice, and enforce federal laws and administer justice.

SPOTLIGHT: NC Judges are on the ballot in 2020. Judges are powerful. They decide cases that save lives and uphold and overrule laws that affect every aspect of your life. They make decisions in disputes on everything from the cost of electricity, to your right to vote, to who gets the death penalty. You will find judicial candidates near the middle of your ballot – another reason to vote the whole ballot, top to bottom.

➔ NC Supreme Court is the state's highest court. Three of the seven seats are on the ballot.

➔ NC Court of Appeals judges hear appeals of criminal and civil cases from the District and Superior Courts, North Carolina's trial courts. Five of the 15 seats are up for election.

➔ Lower Court Judges determine sentencing for crimes and who ultimately goes to prison.

We must do more than tell people to vote – particularly when many of the people at greatest risk of illness and violence in this year's elections have also been subjected to policies explicitly designed to make it harder to cast a ballot that counts. Instead, help people understand how barriers to democratic participation result in harm to people we know and to society as a whole. Provide options that will bring the responses we need and build the more just society we want, such as:

Voting as a start.

Turnout tells elected officials that your community is active and aware. Elected officials pay closer attention to neighborhoods and constituencies that vote. Since local elections can be decided by smaller margins, know and share that one vote really will make a difference. You have power. Use it!

Contact elected officials.

Elected officials are in office to serve you and your fellow citizens. Let them know your thoughts about the policies that most affect you and your community. Make sure to keep the pressure on, especially after the election.

Talk to your friends, family, and neighbors about these important issues. Help them make their voices heard too.

Show up at public meetings.

Meetings where elected and appointed officials make decisions that affect you are public so that you and your community can monitor the policies and laws that are being passed. Show up, speak up, and keep an eye on what's going on in your government.

DEMOCRACY NC

Ask yourself: If people in power don't hear your voice, whose voices will they hear instead?
